for the Advancement of Science whose Project 2061 is an influential waypoint in developing protocols for textbook analysis. Thus the book shows how to gauge aspects of textbooks such as their treatment of controversial issues, graphical depictions, scientific historiography, vocabulary usage, accuracy, and readability. The content also covers broader social themes such as the portrayal of women and minorities. Despite newer, more active pedagogies, textbooks continue to have a strong presence in classrooms and to embody students' socio-historical inheritance in science. Despite their ubiquitous presence, they have received relatively little on-going empirical study. It is imperative that we understand how textbooks influence science learning. This book presents a welcome and much-needed analysis. Tina A. Grotzer, Harvard University, Cambridge, Massachusetts, USA. The present book provides a much-needed survey of the current state of research into science textbooks and offers a wide range of perspectives to inform the science of writing better science textbooks. Keith S. Taber, University of Cambridge, Cambridge, United Kingdom.

The New Politics of the Textbook Heather Hickman, Brad J. Porfilio, 2012-10-29. In an era when corporate and political leaders are using their power to control every aspect of the schooling process in North America, there has been surprisingly little research on the impact of textbook content on students. The contributors of this volume and its partner, The New Politics of the Textbook: Problematizing the Portrayal of Marginalized Groups in Textbooks, guide educators, school administrators, academics, and other concerned citizens to unpack the political, social, and cultural influences inherent in the textbooks of core content areas such as math, science, English, and social science. They urge readers to reconsider the role textbooks play in the creation of students' political, social, and moral development and in perpetuating asymmetrical social and economic relationships where social actors are bestowed unearned privileges and entitlements based upon their race, gender, sexuality, class, religion, and linguistic background. Finally, they suggest ways to resist the hegemony of those texts through critical analyses, critical questioning, and critical pedagogies.
