Behaviour Analysis in Theory and Practice Derek E. Blackman,Helga Lejeune,2013-05-24 This edited book addresses four themes of contemporary importance in the experimental and applied analysis of behaviour chronobiology relationships between time and behaviour the emergence of rational thinking language and behavioural medicine The current empirical and theoretical status of each theme is considered in individual chapters the authors of which are distinguished research scientists drawn from a wide range of scholarship and with a distinctive European dimension This cultural and theoretical diversity emerges from the fact that each chapter is developed from a paper originally presented by invitation at the Second European Meeting on the Experimental Analysis of Behaviour which was held in Li ge Belgium in 1988 Within the four themes individual topics address issues such as circadian rhythms in behaviour temporal regulation in children and in animals the emergence of equivalence relations in children and animals the development of thinking in mentally retarded children reasoning and associative learning in animals rule governed behaviour theoretical issues relating language to the theory of mind the relationship between behavioural and visceral functions the relevance of behavioural approaches to the prevention of AIDS and the development of self detection skills for breast cancer The book makes an important contribution to the literature of contemporary behaviour analysis by reviewing issues of current interest and importance from a broad theoretical base

Fish stocking in inland waters in Europe and Central Asia Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,Cowx, I.G.,2025-03-27 Fish stock enhancement through formal stocking programmes has long been recognized as an important tool to compensate the loss of productivity and diversity Fish stocking is widely implemented across Europe and Central Asia to increase or maintain fish productivity However there are concerns about the benefits and successes associated with stocking fishes as well as the potential risks particularly with respect to ecological impacts from stocking competition and predation changes in ecosystem functioning changes in community structure disease transmission and losses of genetic integrity Consequently there is a need to review the factors that drive successes and failures of fish stocking programmes and the risks from stocking so stock enhancement programmes are carried out in the most effective way This report summarizes the main conclusions of a review of the benefits and impacts of fish stocking It provides a framework to mitigate the negative impacts and maximize the benefits of fish stocking activities
