

The 24 Hawaiians interviewed in Voices of Wisdom are kāhuna, in the old days considered the best in their fields. Through these 24, we learn about a discipline, talent or skill valued in Hawaiian culture. All are leaders of the cultural renaissance that awakened the Hawaiian spirit in recent decades. These are people who have led lives that matter, and what matters most to them is to keep lit the flame of a culture that nearly died. Through their efforts, Hawaiian culture will live on into the next century.

"... a brilliant book of interviews with amazing photographs."

Liz Janes,
The Maui News

"The book is emotionally inspiring all the way through."

Kihei Times

"Harden spent more than three years listening to the stories of some of the most revered kūpuna in the islands. The result is a book of living Hawaiian history.

"Harden has done what scholars often find so difficult: making the past exciting and smoothly linking it to the present."

Valerie Monson,
The Maui News

"Beautifully written and very entertaining, a great way to learn Hawaiian culture."

Marsha Wienert,
Executive Director
Maui Visitors Bureau

"These uncompromising men and women revived Hawaiian language, dance and music; they rediscovered native arts such as kapa making, herbal healing and open-sea navigation; they began the struggle for sovereignty—in short, they pulled their own culture back from the brink of extinction. Today's Hawaiian elders constitute a truly heroic generation.

"Each chapter represents an encounter—and I mean a good, rich, insightful, thought-provoking encounter—with a different member of this heroic generation."

Paul Wood,
Haleakala Times

"Steve Brinkman's masterful black-and-white portraits are intimate, as though you're just about to clasp the person's hand.

Kihei Times

"... a true labor of love."

Asian American Communities and Health Chau Trinh-Shevrin, Nadia S. Islam, Mariano Jose Rey, 2009-04-03 This ground breaking textbook examines Asian American health from a public health perspective It provides an overview of the social political economic and cultural forces that influence the distribution of disease and illness in Asian American communities The book explores the diversity within the Asian community with respect to health seeking behavior and knowledge socioeconomic status educational level cultural traditions and specific health care needs and issues By examining the contextual factors that impact health the book seeks to facilitate a meaningful dialogue and identify creative solutions for health disparities faced by racial and ethnic minority communities

Sacred Claims Greg Johnson, 2007 The Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act NAGPRA of 1990 provides a legal framework within which Native Americans can seek the repatriation of human remains and certain categories of cultural objects including sacred objects from federally funded institutions Although the repatriation movement among Native Americans has heretofore received scholarly attention specifically focused on this act Sacred Claims is the first book to analyze the ways in which religious discourse is used to articulate repatriation claims Greg Johnson takes this act as one instance in a larger context wherein native peoples around the globe must engage legal arenas in order to preserve their heritage Methodologically Sacred Claims is based on a close reading of government documents concerning the law and participant observation in a variety of NAGPRA related events and provides the background and legislative history of the law the life history of the act's axial term cultural affiliation the most delicate and least understood aspect of NAGPRA and several case studies of highly visible and contentious Hawaiian repatriation disputes Johnson then moves beyond the strictly legal context to analyze NAGPRA discourse in the public realm He concludes by way of a theoretical treatment of the foregoing issues arguing that religious language was the chief means by which native representatives ultimately persuaded non native audiences of the applicability of widely held human rights principles to their cultural remains Theorizing modes of cultural vitality in the repatriation context Johnson argues that living tradition is not found in the objects themselves but is instead located in struggles over them With the law on the brink of receiving crucial tests and repatriation issues making daily headlines in Native American and Hawaiian news Sacred Claims is a timely and necessary examination of these issues

Being What You Want to See Jennifer Day, 2008-03 Pathways to the Present Mansel G. Blackford, 2018-03-31 Ranging from the Hawaiian Archipelago to the Aleutian Islands from Silicon Valley to Guam Pathways to the Present is a thoroughly researched and concisely argued account of economic and environmental change in the postwar American Pacific. Following a brief survey of the history of the Pacific the author takes the Hawaiian Islands as the center of American activities in the region and looks at interactions among native Hawaiian developmental military and environmental issues in the archipelago after World War II. He then turns to land and water use problems that have intersected with more nebulous quality of life concerns to generate policy controversies in the Seattle region and the San Francisco Bay area especially Silicon Valley. Economic expansion and environmentalism in Alaska are examined through the lens of changes occurring along the Aleutians. From there the study considers Hiroshima after its destruction by the atomic bomb in 1945 looking at residents' desire to combine urban planning concepts. The author investigates the effort to remake Hiroshima as a high tech city in the 1990s an attempt inspired by the perceived success of Silicon Valley and postwar planning on Okinawa where American influences were particularly strong. The final chapter takes into account issues raised on Guam regarding the growth of tourism and the use of the island for military purposes and links these to developments in the Philippines to the west and American Samoa to the south.

Sensational Religion Sally Promey, 2014-06-24 The result of a collaborative multiyear project this groundbreaking book explores the interpretive worlds that inform religious practice and derive from sensory phenomena. Under the rubric of making sense the studies assembled here ask: How have people used and valued sensory data? How have they shaped their material and immaterial worlds to encourage or discourage certain kinds or patterns of sensory experience? How have they framed the sensual capacities of images and objects to license a range of behaviors including iconoclasm, censorship and accusations of blasphemy or sacrilege? Exposing the dematerialization of religion embedded in secularization theory, editor Sally Promey proposes a fundamental reorientation in understanding the personal, social, political and cultural work accomplished in religion's sensory and material practice. Sensational Religion refocuses scholarly attention on the robust material entanglements often discounted by modernity's metaphysics and on their inextricable connections to human bodies, behaviors, affects and beliefs.

Handbook of Social Work in Health and Aging Barbara Berkman, 2006-02-09 The Handbook of Social Work in Health and Aging is the first reference to combine the fields of health care, aging and social work in a single authoritative volume. These areas are too often treated as discrete entities while the reality is that all social workers deal with issues in health and aging on a daily basis regardless of practice specialization. As the baby boomers age the impact on practice in health and aging will be dramatic and social workers need more specialized knowledge about aging, health care and the resources available to best serve older adults and their families. The volume's 102 original chapters and 13 overviews written by the most experienced and prominent gerontological health care scholars in the United States and across the world provide social work practitioners and educators with up to date knowledge of evidence based practice guidelines for effectively assessing and treating older adults and their families, new models for intervention in both community based practice and institutional care and knowledge of significant policy and Communities Lavonna L. Lovern, 2021-05-15 Global Indigenous Communities is a wide ranging examination of global Indigenous communities that continue to suffer from colonization and assimilation issues including intergenerational trauma The scholarship is interdisciplinary it is not easily categorized as sociology anthropology ethnography or philosophy but cuts across all of these disciplines as well as Indigenous methodologies The book not only presents an academic study of Indigenous issues covering Indigenous community life religion the environment economic matters education and healthcare but also incorporates contributions from Carol Locust EdD that reflect on her lifetime of experience in Indigenous education and healthcare Each studied prism of Indigenous life is revealed to be impacted by the experience of intergenerational trauma that results from continued colonization Ultimately this book aims to bridge the communication gap between Western and Indigenous scholarship and readership artfully combining Indigenous approaches with a traditional academic style
