Das, Jiannong Cao,2019-07-15 The proliferation of powerful but cheap devices together with the availability of a plethora of wireless technologies has pushed for the spread of the Wireless Internet of Things WIoT which is typically much more heterogeneous dynamic and general purpose if compared with the traditional IoT The WIoT is characterized by the dynamic interaction of traditional infrastructure side devices e.g sensors and actuators provided by municipalities in Smart City infrastructures and other portable and more opportunistic ones such as mobile smartphones opportunisticly integrated to dynamically extend and enhance the WIoT environment A key enabler of this vision is the advancement of software and middleware technologies in various mobile related sectors ranging from the effective synergic management of wireless communications to mobility adaptivity support in operating systems and differentiated integration and management of devices with heterogeneous capabilities in middleware from horizontal support to crowdsourcing in different application domains to dynamic offloading to cloud resources only to mention a few The book presents state of the art contributions in the articulated WIoT area by providing novel insights about the development and adoption of middleware solutions to enable the WIoT vision in a wide spectrum of heterogeneous scenarios ranging from industrial environments to educational devices

The presented solutions provide readers with differentiated point of views by demonstrating how the WIoT vision can be applied to several aspects of our daily life in a pervasive manner

Computer Algebra R. Albrecht, B. Buchberger, G.E. Collins, R. Loos, 2013-06-29 The journal Computing has established a series of supplement volumes the fourth of which appears this year Its purpose is to provide a coherent presentation of a new topic in a single volume The previous subjects were Computer Arithmetic 1977 Fundamentals of Numerical Computation 1980 and Parallel Processes and Related Automata 1981 the topic of this 1982 Supplementum to Computing is Computer Algebra This subject which emerged in the early nineteen sixties has also been referred to as symbolic and algebraic computation or formula manipulation Algebraic algorithms have been receiving increasing interest as a result of the recognition of the central role of algorithms in computer science They can be easily specified in a formal and rigorous way and provide solutions to problems known and studied for a long time Whereas traditional algebra is concerned with constructive methods computer algebra is furthermore interested in efficiency in implementation and in hardware and software aspects of the algorithms It develops that in deciding effectiveness and determining efficiency of algebraic methods many other tools recursion theory logic analysis and combinatorics for example are necessary In the beginning of the use of computers for symbolic algebra it soon became apparent that the straightforward textbook methods were often very inefficient Instead of turning to numerical approximation methods computer algebra studies systematically the sources of the inefficiency and searches for alternative algebraic methods to improve or even replace the algorithms
