Proof and Other Dilemmas Bonnie Gold, Roger A. Simons, 2008 During the first 75 years of the twentieth century almost all work in the philosophy of mathematics concerned foundational questions In the last quarter of the century philosophers of mathematics began to return to basic questions concerning the philosophy of mathematics such as what is the nature of mathematical knowledge and of mathematical objects and how is mathematics related to science Two new schools of philosophy of mathematics social constructivism and structuralism were added to the four traditional views formalism intuitionism logicism and platonism The advent of the computer led to proofs and the development of mathematics assisted by computer and to questions of the role of the computer in mathematics This book of 16 essays all written specifically for this volume is the first to explore this range of new developments in a language accessible to mathematicians Approximately half the essays were written by mathematicians and consider questions that philosophers are not yet discussing The other half written by philosophers of mathematics summarize the discussion in that community during the last 35 years In each case a connection is made to issues relevant to the teach of mathematics
