the tracks and plummeted into the creek bed below When they struck bottom one of the wrecked cars was immediately engulfed in flames as the heating stoves in the coach spilled out coals and ignited its wooden timbers The other car was badly smashed About fifty people died at the bottom of the gorge or shortly thereafter and dozens more were injured Rescuers from the small rural community responded with haste but there was almost nothing they could do but listen to the cries of the dying and carry away the dead and injured thrown clear of the fiery wreck The next day and in the weeks that followed newspapers across the country carried news of the Angola Horror one of the deadliest railway accidents to that point in U S history In a dramatic historical narrative Charity Vogel tells the gripping true to life story of the wreck and the characters involved in the tragic accident Her tale weaves together the stories of the people some unknown others soon to be famous caught up in the disaster the facts of the New York Express s fateful run the fiery scenes in the creek ravine and the subsequent legal legislative and journalistic search for answers to the question what had happened at Angola and why The Angola Horror is a classic story of disaster and its aftermath in which events coincide to produce horrific consequences and people are forced to respond to experiences that test the limits of their endurance Vogel sets the Angola Horror against a broader context of the developing technology of railroads the culture of the nation s print media the public policy legislation of the post Civil War era and finally the culture of death and mourning in the Victorian period The Angola Horror sheds light on the psyche of the American nation The fatal wreck of an express train nine years later during a similar bridge crossing in Ashtabula Ohio serves as a chilling coda to the story

A Life of George Westinghouse (Classic Reprint) Henry G. Prout, 2015-06-30 Excerpt from A Life of George Westinghouse Many officers and members of The American Society of Mechanical Engineers have thought that the Society ought to publish the lives of some of its great men In 1912 it published a special edition of the Autobiography of John Fritz Honorary Member and Past President This life of George Westinghouse Honorary Member and Past President is the second in what may be a series of such biographies The activities of George Westinghouse were many and varied and many different activities went on simultane ously He dealt in the same week and often in the same day with organization financial and executive affairs commercial affairs and the engineering details of half a dozen companies in two hemispheres They were as far apart in kind as the air brake and natural gas and as far apart in geography as San Francisco and St Petersburg That being so it seemed that a chronological narrative would of necessity lead to some confusion not to say fatigue for the reader It was decided to treat each topic by itself without regard to what might be going on at the same time in other fields with a short preliminary chapter to which the reader might return to orient himself should he care for instance to know what other serious things were in hand at a critical moment in the history of the air brake It was hoped that by this treatment a certain continuity of impression might be kept in each story told by itself About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works     The Froehlich/Kent Encyclopedia of Telecommunications Fritz E.
