Promoting Source Reduction and Recyclability in the Marketplace, 1989      Voice of the Marketplace Joseph A. Pratt, William H. Becker, William M. McClenahan, 2002 The National Petroleum Council NPC emerged out of the close cooperation between the petroleum industry and the federal government during World War II An industry financed advisory committee designed to work closely with the Department of the Interior it enjoyed a remarkable independence from political or financial pressures Including representatives of all phases of the petroleum business the NPC could reach deep within the industry for information on vital issues In the last fifty plus years the Council has evolved into a voice of the marketplace analyzing conditions in the petroleum industry at the request of the government and publishing its findings in reports widely considered authoritative and useful Three uniquely qualified historians here chronicle the development and contributions of the NPC to both the energy industry and the American market While technological advances skyrocketing world demand the rise of OPEC and far reaching regulatory initiatives have fundamentally transformed the petroleum industry's structure and operating environment the National Petroleum Council has remained a reliable source of authoritative information Joseph A Pratt William H Becker and William McClenahan Jr analyze the choices and strategies that have given the Council the adaptability and resilience to survive and remain important The authors look also at the actual reports generated by the Council more than two hundred studies to date and the impact they have had on both government and business They examine the NPC's ability to tap information and personnel from all sectors of the industry and to fund from industry resources studies that would have exceeded the pockets of the federal government They consider the way the Council has managed to encompass the varied viewpoints within a diverse highly competitive industry and particularly to bridge the sharp historical division between the majors and the independents Finally the authors analyze the one political concern that has remained constant for the industry antitrust This engagingly written book not only sheds light on the petroleum industry and its regulatory context but also addresses the larger questions of the U S government's relations with the industries it regulates      Developing New Food Products for a Changing Marketplace Aaron L. Keeping to the Marketplace John C. Bacher,1993-07-08 Some social housing was developed as a result of the 1949 National Housing Act NHA amendments but this program remained marginalized for many years as government policy favoured shelter provision by private entrepreneurs While the 1973 amendments to the NHA set the stage for a vigorous comprehensive housing policy these measures were short lived In 1978 federal termination of land banking and transfer of financial responsibilities for housing to the provinces encouraged a rapid contraction of the growth of social housing contributing to mounting homelessness in the 1980s Bacher s analysis is a fundamental departure from explanations of the policies of the Canadian federal state by both liberal and Marxist scholars While accepting their notion of the hegemonic role of the ideologically rigid Department of Finance he stresses that such orthodoxy was not shared throughout influential sections of the Canadian civil service Many critical policy shapers chafed under the department s narrow constraints and were instrumental in effecting policy changes which enabled more socially responsive housing programs to develop

Academic Collaborations in the Global Marketplace Anatoly V. Oleksiyenko,2019-08-23 This book explains why conflict between the institutional and human agencies is an unavoidable outcome of competing local national and global agendas at a major research university It illustrates this by means of a case study of Glonacal U a university which belongs to the category of exceptional institutions that excel due to an established organizational culture of academic freedom research excellence shared governance and intellectual leadership The book shows how such a university may succumb to anxiety when neoliberal managers seek to exploit stakeholder doubts about university sufficiency relevance and performance in national and global markets and hierarchies of knowledge products and status goods As top down pressure for strategic choices in scientific partnerships increases at the world class university grassroots resistance to centralization increases also in order to remind the research university leaders that intellectual work and academic freedom are interdependent and central to building capacities for impactful global science

Productive global linkages are prerogative of academics who take full responsibility for success of project implementation and outcomes in scholarship and practice

Mastering the Marketplace Anne O'Neil-Henry, 2017-12 Mastering the Marketplace examines the origins of modern mass media culture through developments in the new literary marketplace of nineteenth century France and how literature itself reveals the broader social and material conditions in which it is produced Anne O Neil Henry examines how French authors of the nineteenth century navigated the growing publishing and marketing industry as well as the dramatic rise in literacy rates libraries reading rooms literary journals political newspapers and the advent of the serial novel O Neil Henry places the work of canonical author Honor de Balzac alongside then popular writers such as Paul de Kock and Eug ne Sue acknowledging the importance of low authors in the wider literary tradition By reading literary texts alongside associated advertisements book reviews publication histories sales tactics and promotional tools O Neil Henry presents a nuanced picture of the relationship between high and low literature one in which critics and authors alike grappled with the common problem of commercial versus cultural capital Through new literary readings and original archival research from holdings in the United States and France O Neil Henry revises existing understandings of a crucial moment in the development of industrialized culture In the process she discloses links between this formative period and our own in which mobile electronic devices internet based bookstores and massive publishing conglomerates alter once again the way literature is written sold and read

Faith in the Marketplace Samuel Lee, 2021-04-12 Contemporary missions often include evangelistic and socio economic dimensions For effective missions some way of assessing what is being achieved is needed beyond just the common metrics touching on the spiritual and or economic which neglects social transformation that ideally should also be occurring This book seeks to identify key factors for holistic evaluation based on salient characteristics that emerged as three Entrepreneurial Church Planting sites were studied in San Francisco Redeemer Community Church Selma Alabama Blue Jean Church and Lynch Kentucky Meridzo Ministries What emerges from these case studies is the importance of relationality general emphasis on growth and development and a well established focus on holistic transformation The mechanisms for the operation of holistic transformation are spelled out to reflect the operation of the three actors of the Trinity in missions The practical component of the book is the conceptual framework that reveals the operation of holistic transformation and ways to measure the dynamic relationships that occur

Bury Me at the Marketplace N. Chabani Manganyi, David Attwell, 2009-11-01 When Chabani Manganyi published the first edition of selected letters twenty five years ago as a companion volume to Exiles and Homecomings A Biography of Es kia Mphahlele the idea of Mphahlele s death was remote and poetic The title Bury Me at the Marketplace suggested that immortality of a kind awaited Mphahlele in the very coming and going of those who remember him and whose lives he touched It suggested too the energy and magnanimity of Mphahlele the man whose personality and intellect as a writer and educator would carve an indelible place for him in South Africa s public sphere That death has now come and we mourn it Manganyi s words at the time have acquired a new significance in the symbolic marketplace he noted the drama of life continues relentlessly and the silence of death is unmasked for all time The silence of death is certainly unmasked in this volume in its record of Mphahlele s rich and varied life his private words his passions and obsessions his arguments his loves hopes achievements and yes even some of his failures Here the reader will find many facets of the private man translated back into the marketplace of public memory Despite the personal nature of the letters the further horizons of this volume are the contours of South Africa s literary and cultural history the international affiliations out of which it has been formed particularly in the diaspora that connects South Africa to the rest of the African continent and to the black presence in Europe and the United States This selection of Mphahlele s own letters has been greatly expanded it has also been augmented by the addition of letters from Mphahlele s correspondents among them such luminaries as Langston Hughes and Nadine Gordimer It seeks to illustrate the networks that shaped Mphahlele s personal and intellectual life the circuits of intimacy intellectual inquiry of friendship scholarship and solidarity that he created and nurtured over the years The letters cover the period from November 1943 to April 1987 forty four of Mphahlele s mature years and most of his active professional life The correspondence is supplemented by introductory essays from the two editors by two interviews conducted with Mphahlele by Manganyi and by Attwell s insightful explanatory notes
