The International Cinema Society:

Film Society Review, 1970 The Movie Lovers' Club Cathleen Rountree, 2011-02-09 Large screen TVs and full line DVD services have liberated movie lovers from fear of parking and stale popcorn Across the country movie lovers are staying in and creating their own version of book clubs but without the homework The Movie Lovers Club the only guide for movie nights with friends motivates readers to form their own Lovers Club clubs to explore the more than 100 excellent film suggestions summaries critical reviews and insider anecdotes Author Cathleen Rountree offers a year's worth of must see classic contemporary independent and foreign films and provocative discussion questions to keep the cinematic conversation lively With everything readers need to know to start a Movie Lovers Club the book's selections run the gamut and include powerful films such as To Kill a Mockingbird Henry and June and Real Women Have Curves Whether you need advice for a political group a girls night out party or a band of indie film devotees movie watching reaches new depths with ideas on where when and how to launch a film group Transatlantic Cinephilia Rielle Navitski, 2023-11-21 In the two decades after World War II a vibrant cultural infrastructure of cineclubs archives festivals and film schools took shape in Latin America through the labor of film enthusiasts who often worked in concert with French and France based organizations In promoting the emerging concept and practice of art cinema these film related institutions advanced geopolitical and class interests simultaneously in a polarized Cold War climate Seeking to sharpen viewers critical faculties as a safeguard against ideological extremes institutions of film culture lent prestige to Latin America's growing middle classes and capitalized on official and unofficial efforts to boost the circulation of French cinema enhancing the nation's soft power in the wake of military defeat and occupation As the first book length transnational analysis of postwar Latin American film culture Transatlantic Cinephilia deepens our understanding of how institutional networks have nurtured alternative and nontheatrical cinemas Cinema 16 Scott Macdonald, 2002-01-24 The history of Cinema 16 the nation's first film society through letters programs interviews and the society's own documents Korea's Occupied Cinemas, 1893-1948 Brian Yecies, Ae-Gyung Shim, 2012-05-23 Korea's Occupied Cinemas 1893-1948 compares and contrasts the development of cinema in Korea during the Japanese occupation 1910-1945 and US Army Military 1945-1948 periods within the larger context of cinemas in occupied territories It differs from previous studies by drawing links between the arrival in Korea of modern technology and ideas and the cultural political and social environment as it follows the development of exhibition film policy and filmmaking from 1893 to 1948 During this time Korean filmmakers seized every opportunity to learn production techniques and practice their skills contributing to the growth of a national cinema despite the conditions produced by their occupation by colonial and military powers At the same time Korea served as an important territory for the global expansion of the American and Japanese film industries and after the late 1930s Koreans functioned as key figures in the co production of propaganda films that were designed to glorify loyalty to the Japanese Empire For these reasons and as a result of the tensions created by divided loyalties the history of cinema in Korea is a far more dynamic story than simply that of a national cinema struggling to develop its own narrative content and aesthetics under colonial conditions Cinemas and Cinema-Going in the United Kingdom: Decades of Decline, 1945-65 Sam Manning, 2020-03-31 Cinema going was the most popular commercial leisure activity in the first half of the twentieth century peaking in 1946 with 1.6 billion recorded admissions Though going to the pictures remained a popular pastime the transition to peacetime altered citizens leisure habits During the 1950s increased affluence the growth of television ownership and the diversification of leisure led to rapid declines in attendance Cinema attendances fell in all regions but the speed nature and extent of decline varied widely across the United Kingdom By linking national developments to detailed case studies of Belfast and Sheffield this book adds nuance to our understanding of regional variations in film exhibition audience habits and cinema going experiences during a period of profound social and cultural change Drawing on a wide range of quantitative and qualitative sources Cinema and Cinema Going conveys the diverse nature of this important industry and the significance of place as a determinant of film attendance in post war Britain
