Absent with Cause reissued here with a new preface looks at the Bayswater Centre which provided full time education for young people who had stopped attending comprehensive schools and for whom the alternative may well have been home tuition or residential provision in community homes or assessment centres By describing what actually happened in a documented year with a whole intake of youngsters the intention was to probe beneath the label of failure to show that a meaningful full time educational programme could be offered and accepted despite disastrous home backgrounds or a history of complete disenchantment with school By pointing to the success of an ethos that redefined the three most important educational objectives as Responsibility Articulation and Relevance and which actually offered young people a real opportunity to participate in determining their own educational programme and by reference to other units and schools working along similar lines the intention was to discuss the implications for state provision Today it can be read in its historical context This book is a re issue originally published in 1980 The language used is a reflection of its era and no offence is meant by the Publishers to any reader by this re publication FET Colleges South Africa. for International Development has successfully supported developing countries in progress against goals of universal enrolment in primary education and improved educational prospects for girls DFID s 22 priority countries have made significant progress towards universal enrolment from typically 50 per cent of children or lower in the mid 1990s to 70 per cent to 90 per cent now But pupil drop out is high typical drop out rates are 10 per cent to 15 per cent in year one and completion of primary education is low ranging from 57 per cent of children in Nepal to 17 per cent in Malawi Because pupil and teacher attendance is poor there are insufficient teaching hours And although pupil attainment has been poorly measured the information that is available shows low levels of literacy and numeracy since 2001 DFID along with other donors and recipient governments has focused on enrolment more than the quality of education It has started to redress this imbalance but needs to focus more on key factors like teacher and pupil attendance quality and attainment in its interventions Typically salaries mostly those of teachers consume 90 per cent of education budgets in developing countries yet pay is not routinely monitored Wage bills have reached levels which limit the affordability of educational expansion in DFID priority countries There are other opportunities to work with governments to help raise cost effectiveness non formal education initiatives designed to reach remote or migrant communities have features which could be applied successfully in formal schools
