SETTING THE STAGE In the postwar years, the Soviet Union kept a firm grip on its satellite countries in Eastern Europe. These countries were Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Albania, and East Germany. (Yugoslavia had broken away from Soviet control in 1948, although it remained Communist.) The Soviet Union did not allow them to direct and develop their own economies. Instead, it insisted that they develop industries to meet Soviet needs. These policies greatly hampered Eastern Europe's economic recovery.

Soviet Policy in Eastern Europe and China

More moderate Soviet leaders came to power after Stalin's death. They allowed satellite countries somewhat more independence, as long as they remained allied with the Soviet Union. During the 1950s and 1960s, however, growing protest movements in Eastern Europe threatened the Soviet grip on the region. Increasing tensions with China also diverted Soviet attention and forces.

Destalinization and Rumblings of Protest After Stalin died in 1953, Nikita Khrushchev became the dominant Soviet leader. In 1956, the shrewd, tough Khrushchev denounced Stalin for jailing and killing loyal Soviet citizens. His speech signaled the start of a policy called destalinization, or purging the country of Stalin's memory. Workers destroyed monuments of the former dictator. Khrushchev called for "peaceful competition" with capitalist states.

But this new Soviet outlook did not change life in satellite countries. Their resentment at times turned to active protest. In October 1956, for example, the Hungarian army joined protesters to overthrow Hungary's Soviet-controlled government. Storming through the capital, Budapest, mobs waved Hungarian flags with the Communist hammer-and-sickle emblem cut out. "From the youngest child to the oldest man," one protester declared, "no one wants communism."

A popular and liberal Hungarian Communist leader named Imre Nagy (IHME-ray nahj) formed a new government. Nagy promised free elections and demanded Soviet troops leave. In response, Soviet tanks and infantry entered Budapest in November. Thousands of Hungarian freedom fighters armed themselves with pistols and bottles, but were overwhelmed. A pro-Soviet government was installed, and Nagy was eventually executed.

1 7 language English abstract The end of the Cold War left many IR scholars puzzled how could after 40 years the Cold War end that peacefully Why did Soviet foreign policy change so drastically within a few years How come US perception of the Soviet Union SU changed within a decade from the evil empire to an allied partner Neither realism nor liberalism could have predicted or fully explained this event Realism failed firstly because rivalry between the US and the SU ended peacefully secondly moving from a bipolar to a unipolar system clearly contradicted realist expectations on balance of power and power equilibrium Risse Kappen 1994 Instead the end of the Cold War proved the unbashed victory of economic and political liberalism Fukuyama 1989 SU s move toward liberal order brough forward the end of the Cold War but this does not answer why the SU chose to adopt liberal order why to such an extent and why around the mid 1980s Hence domestic factors having been excluded from the analysis so far must have played a key role After a theoretical review on domestic variables in IR I will analyze how domestic factors influenced Soviet foreign policy especially Soviet new thinkers economic factors and domestic political infrastructure To provide a complete analysis I will also shed light on the influence of US5 domestic
