recent armed conflicts such as those in Iraq the former Yugoslavia and Rwanda public attention was repeatedly caught by images of children both as civilians and as soldiers Those conflicts like so many others were vivid reminders that where there is armed conflict there are also almost always children Soldiers and officers fulfil many roles in relation to such children sometimes as combatants sometimes as humanitarian workers sometimes as protectors and or sometimes as enemies and

abusers This book aims to address three main questions what are the obligations of officers of national armed forces in relation to children either civilians or combatants whom they or those under their command may encounter while participating in situations of armed conflict How realistic and achievable are these obligations How can compliance with them be encouraged monitored and or enforced The book examines these questions in the context of military training In doing so it has another inextricably linked aim to see if there are ways in which the training of officers can improve the protection of children in armed conflict situations in accordance with international law and policy It is intended for use particularly by those involved in training of national armed forces including officers themselves and members of governments non governmental organisations NGOs and inter governmental organisations It is hoped that it will also be of interest to lawyers academics and others concerned with child rights and related law and policy It contains examples of actual training materials that can be modified for use in different countries and contexts
