

ESSENTIAL SKILLS

- 7-1. Explain how overproduction of offspring, competition and individual variation lead to natural selection.
- 7-2. List and describe five evidences for evolution.
- 7-3. Use evidence to describe how the five mechanisms of evolution lead to the evolution of a population.
- 7-4. Describe and provide an example of how a change in environmental conditions may lead to the formation of new species (speciation) or the extinction of existing species.

STUDY GUIDE

1. Explain how each of the following relate to Natural Selection:
Genetic Diversity – gives more options for nature to select from.
Overproduction of offspring – provides more variety and fight for survival; ensures that at least some of the offspring will survive.
Competition – fight for survival; better “fighters” survive and pass on their genes to the next generation.
Reproduction – can pass the “better” genes on to the next generation.
2. What is meant by Fitness in Biology? List at least 4 different environmental factors that affect a species “fitness” or survival.
Ability to survive AND reproduce. Those with “better” traits will be able to reproduce more. Survival depends on food, competition for mate, avoidance of predators, temperature, water, etc.
3. Why is “survival of the fittest” an incomplete description of natural selection? ? Survival of the fittest does not include the importance of reproduction. Without survival and reproduction, the population does not improve.
4. Why is it that an individual can not evolve; only populations can evolve? Evolution involves the change in gene pools over time, and an individual cannot change its genes. Populations can see a shift in the gene frequencies with each generation. This is genetic change, or evolution.
5. Explain how each of the following are used to support evolutionary relationships among species:
Fossils – evidence of previous life forms through time. Shows that life on Earth has changed in the past.
Biogeography – Looking at similar species of animals in different parts of the world. Provides evidence of how environmental factors drive evolution of different species.
Molecular Comparisons – DNA & Protein comparisons show relatedness. Changes in DNA accumulate over time.
Anatomical Comparisons – Homologous & Vestigial structures show modifications of the same basic body types. Indicates a common/shared ancestry, where the same genes for these structures were preserved in each developing species and passed on.
Embryological Development – Studying embryos show similar patterns of development among related species. The more closely related the species are, the longer their embryo develop “patterns” each other. Very different species show great differences right away.
6. Why is it important for scientists to use more than one source of evidence to support evolutionary relationships? Give an example of many sources leading to the same conclusions about evolution.
Multiple evidences and repeatable results lead to accepted theories. Example: Whale evolution from land mammals = fossils, homologous structures, DNA evidence, embryology, biogeography all show the same evolutionary path.

Dr. Carl Werner,2018-05-17 Chapter Discussion Question Teachers are encouraged to participate with the student as they complete the discussion questions The purpose of the Chapter Purpose section is to introduce the chapter to the student The Discussion Questions are meant to be thought provoking The student may not know the answers but should answer with their thoughts ideas and knowledge of the subject using sound reasoning and logic They should study the answers and compare them with their own thoughts We recommend the teacher discuss the questions the student s answers and the correct answers with the student This section should not be used for grading purposes DVD Each DVD is watched in its entirety to familiarize the student with each book in the course They will watch it again as a summary as they complete each book Students may also use the DVD for review as needed as they complete each chapter of the course Chapter Worksheets The worksheets are foundational to helping the student learn the material and come to a deeper understanding of the concepts presented Often the student will compare what we should find in the fossil record and in living creatures if evolution were true with what we actually find This comparison clearly shows evolution is an empty theory simply based on the evidence God s Word can be trusted and displayed both in the fossil record and in living creatures Tests and Exams There is a test for each chapter sectional exams and a comprehensive final exam for each book

Evolution and Progress in Democracies Johann Götschl,2013-03-09 In a ground breaking series of articles one of them written by a Nobel Laureate this volume demonstrates the evolutionary dynamic and the transformation of today's democratic societies into scientific democratic societies. It highlights the progress of modeling individual and societal evaluation by neo Bayesian utility theory. It shows how social learning and collective opinion formation work and how democracies cope with randomness caused by randomizers.

Nonlinear evolution equations and serial stochastic matrices of evolutionary game theory allow us to optimally compute possible serial evolutionary solutions of societal conflicts. But in democracies progress can be defined as any positive gradual innovative and creative change of culturally used transmitted and stored mentifacts models theories sociofacts customs opinions artifacts and technifacts within and across generations. The most important changes are caused besides randomness by conflict solutions and their realizations by citizens who follow democratic laws. These laws correspond to the extended Pareto principle a supreme socioethical democratic rule. According to this principle progress is any increase in the individual and collective welfare which is achieved during any evolutionary progress. Central to evolutionary modeling is the criterion of the empirical realization of computed solutions. Applied to serial conflict solutions decisions evolutionary trajectories are formed they become the most influential causal attractors of the channeling of societal evolution. Democratic constitutions legal systems etc store all advantageous present and past adaptive competitive cooperative and collective solutions and their rules they have been accepted by majority votes. Societal laws are codes of statutes default or statistical rules and they serve to optimally solve societal conflicts in analogy to game theoretical models or to statistical decision theory. Such solutions become necessary when we face harmful or advantageous random events always lurking at the edge of societal and external chaos. The evolutionary theory of societal evolution in democracies presents a new type of stochastic theory it is based on default rules and stresses realization. The rules represent the change of our democracies into information science and technology based societies they will revolutionize social sciences especially economics. Their methods have already found their way into neural brain physiology and research into intelligence. In this book neural activity and the creativity of human thinking are no longer regarded as linear deductive. Only evolutive nonlinear thinking can include multiple causal choices by many individuals and the risks of internal and external randomness this serves the increasing welfare of all individuals and society as a whole. Evolution and Progress in Democracies is relevant for social scientists economists evolution theorists statisticians philosophers of science and interdisciplinary researchers.

Charles Darwin changed the course of scientific thinking by showing how evolution accounts for the stunning diversity and biological complexity of life on earth Recently there has also been increased interest in the social sciences in how Darwinian theory can explain human culture Covering a wide range of topics including fads public policy the spread of religion and herd behavior in markets Alex Mesoudi shows that human culture is itself an evolutionary process that exhibits the key Darwinian mechanisms of variation competition and inheritance This cross disciplinary volume focuses on the ways cultural phenomena can be studied scientifically from theoretical modeling to lab experiments archaeological fieldwork to ethnographic studies and shows how apparently disparate methods can complement one another to the mutual benefit of the various social science disciplines Along the way the book reveals how new insights arise from looking at culture from an evolutionary angle Cultural Evolution provides a thought provoking argument that Darwinian evolutionary theory can both unify different branches of inquiry and enhance understanding of human behavior     *Catalog of Copyright Entries.
