stage of capitalist building production involving a significant expansion of wage labour and hence capital and the transition from artisan to industrial production Linda Clarke draws from a wide range of original material relating to the development of London from the mid eighteenth to the early nineteenth century to provide a complete description of the development process materials extraction roadbuilding housebuilding paving cleansing etc profiles of builders and contractors involved and a picture of the new working class communities as in Somers Town their living conditions population working environment and politics

Local Government and Strategic Choice (Routledge Revivals) John Friend, Neil Jessop, 2013-10-14 First published in 1969 this book is concerned with the processes of policy making in local government The authors address themselves to the basic challenge of planning in a democracy and consider issues such as how those elected to exercise choice on our behalf can preserve and expand their capacity to choose discriminatingly when the sheer complexity of the issues facing them tends all the time to make them increasingly dependent on the skills and judgements of their professional advisers This question is explored in relation to the many different yet interdependent aspects of the planning process which impinge on any local community with particular reference to the planning of housing transport education and shopping of land use and local government finance The book is the outcome of a four year program of research during which a mixed team of operational research and social scientists was given a unique opportunity to observe the ways in which decisions were made and plans formulated in one particular city Coventry It covers both political and professional aspects of local government in 1960s Great Britain and has had important implications for urban governments throughout the world Urban Transport Planning (Routledge Revivals) Harry Dimitriou,2013-12-19 Originally published in 1992 this book discusses a contemporary growth in environmental awareness reflected in an increasing concern about the pollution caused by motor cars The author considers the problem of congestion bringing traffic to a halt in the major cities and the increasingly controversial nature of contemporary transport planning Professor Dimitriou provides a thorough and incisive contemporary analysis and suggests some appropriate solutions for the future
