Topic: Tech & Engineering | Words: 883 | Pages: 3

Introduction

Cell phones have become part and parcel of our lives, one cannot imagine a life without cell phones these days. Cell phones have become an integral part of our lives. It is not very safe to use cellphones continuously and research goes to prove the same. There is no doubt that cell phones have made our lives easier but on the contrary people expose themselves to vulnerable circumstances when they use cell phones while driving. This paper will throw light upon the consequences of the same.

Analysis

Human brain is not capable of doing multi tasking to perfection, all are not Leonardo da Vinci to write with one hand and to paint with the other. A normal human brain is only capable of carrying out a single task with perfection but when it comes to multitasking, the brain often under performs. Accidents take away many a life each day in some part of the world or the other. Most of these accidents are caused by ignorance and one of the most important causes of accidents is the use of mobile phone while driving. The message conveyed over the phone takes priority and driving takes a back seat which inevitably results in an accident, the severity of the same depends on more factors than one, the most important of all is the speed of the car, another important factor is how quickly the driver realises that the car is out of control and lastly it depends on the reflexes of the driver.
