Karpinski, 2012-05-01 Borrowed Tongues is the first consistent attempt to apply the theoretical framework of translation studies in the analysis of self representation in life writing by women in transnational diasporic and immigrant communities. It focuses on linguistic and philosophical dimensions of translation showing how the dominant language serves to articulate and reinforce social cultural political and gender hierarchies. Drawing on feminist poststructuralist and postcolonial scholarship this study examines Canadian and American examples of traditional autobiography autoethnography and experimental narrative. As a prolific and contradictory site of linguistic performance and cultural production such texts challenge dominant assumptions about identity difference and agency. Using the writing of authors such as Marlene Nourbae, Philip Jamaica Kincaid, Laura Goodman Salverson and Akemi Kikumura and focusing on discourses through which subject positions and identities are produced the study argues that different concepts of language and translation correspond with particular constructions of subjectivity and attitudes to otherness. A nuanced analysis of intersectional differences reveals gender race ethnicity nationality culture and diaspora as unstable categories of representation.

Writing Lovers
Méria Cook, 2005. Is it possible to capture something as ephemeral as love with mere words? Méria Cook draws on Lacan, Derrida, Barthes and Kristeva to wrestle with the theoretical problems of representing the unrepresentable. In Writing Lovers she searches for a language adequate to articulating the discourse of passion, desire and longing in the love poetry of Dionne Brand, Elizabeth Smart, Daphne Marlatt, Dorothy Livesay, Kristjana Gunnars and Nicole Markotic. In writings by the French post structuralists rhetorical tropes such as speechlessness, fragmentation and deflection testify to the writer's difficulty in broaching the subject of love. Similarly Cook shows that love poetry proceeds out of a profound failure of language resulting from the opacity of discourse, its lack of neutrality or the fugitive transparency of reference. Writing Lovers also explores race, ethnicity, age and sexual identity within the context of the passionate excesses of amatory discourse.

The Wounded Heart
Yvonne Yarbro-Bejarano, 2011-05-18. In her work as poet, essayist, editor, dramatist and public intellectual, Chicana lesbian writer Cherríe Moraga has been extremely influential in current debates on culture and identity as an ongoing, open-ended process. Analyzing the in-between spaces in Moraga's writing where race, gender, class and sexuality intermingle, this first book-length study of Moraga's work focuses on her writing of the body and related material practices of sex, desire and pleasure. Yvonne Yarbro-Bejarano divides the book into three sections which analyze Moraga's writing of the body, her dramaturgy in the context of both dominant and alternative Western theatrical traditions and her writing of identities and racialized desire. Through close textual readings of Loving in the War Years, Giving Up the Ghost, Shadow of a Man, Heroes and Saints, The Last Generation and Waiting in the Wings, Yarbro-Bejarano contributes to the development of a language to talk about sexuality as potentially empowering, the place of desire within politics and the intricate workings of racialized desire.

emotional and sexual exchanges between women Barnes's Nightwood with its experimental form and passionate language has made its mark on contemporary writers and Carolyn Allen argues that Harris Winterson and Brown continue Barnes's explorations of obsession loss excess and power between women lovers Allen stresses the importance of difference in lovers who are like and the influence of memory in the making of desire At the same time she illuminates the ongoing trade offs between passion and comfort and between loss and discovery as crucial to the intensity of women's erotics
