Designed to aid adults parents teachers librarians in selecting from the best of recent children s literature this guide provides 1 400 reviews of books published between 1979 and 1984 This volume carries on the tradition established by Zena

Sutherland's two earlier collections covering the periods from 1966 to 1972 and 1973 to 1978. Her 1973 edition of The Best in Children's Books was cited by the American School Board Journal as one of the outstanding books of the year in education.

Books in the Life of a Child Maurice Saxby, 1997-10-15. Books in the Life of a Child explores the value of books and reading in the stimulation of children's imagination and their fundamental importance in the development of language and true literacy. It examines not only the vast range of children's books available but also how to introduce young people to the joys of reading in the home, the school, and in the community. The book has been written as a resource for all adults, especially teachers, student teachers, librarians, and parents, and those who care about the value of literature for children. It is a comprehensive and critical guide with chapters on the history of children's literature and an analysis of its many forms and genres from poetry, fairytale, myth, legend, and fantasy through realistic and historical fiction to humour, pulp fiction, and information books.

Shaping Concepts of Technology Marc J de Vries, Arley Tamir, 2012-12-06. As our modern society is so obviously influenced by technology, there is a growing awareness of its importance for education. The interest for including technology as a part of general education curricula is increasing. In many countries, technology is an element in the curriculum, either as a topic, a project, part of a Science Technology Society (STS) programme, part of science education, or as a separate subject. In order to clarify what technology is, there is a need for international discussions in which philosophers, engineers, scientists, and educationalists are involved. One of the few conferences with such a broad representation was the second Jerusalem International Science and Technology Education Conference (JISTEC) that was held in Jerusalem, January 8-11, 1996, a conference that can truly be seen as a milestone in the international history of technology education. More than 1,000 technology educators from more than 80 countries of the world and ministers of education from 28 countries came together to discuss current issues in technology education during JISTEC. To cite from Dr Michael Dyrenfurth's personal overview of the conference in the Journal of Industrial Teacher Education, vol. 33, no. 2, Winter 1996, pp. 83-85: "Simply put, this conference represented the most stellar international collection of technology education advocates the world has ever seen in one place." Or in the words of Dr Onoto Watanna Diana Birchall, 2001. In 1901, Winnifred Eaton arrived in New York City with literary ambitions, journalism experience, and the manuscript for A Japanese Nightingale, the novel that would make her famous. Her writing and gift for reinvention would set her apart from other women authors of her time and make her a fascinating early figure in Asian American literature. Diana Birchall Eaton's granddaughter tells the Horatio Alger story of the woman who became Onoto Watanna. Born to a British father and a Chinese mother, Winnifred capitalized on her exotic appearance and protected herself from Americans' scorn of the Chinese by becoming Japanese. Her popular Japanese-themed romance novels thrust her into the glittering world of New York's literati. From there, she leapt to Hollywood to become a scriptwriting protégée of Carl Laemmle at Universal Studios. Yet her boldness and talent masked a sometimes desperate personal life that included a troubled first marriage and the sudden end of her Hollywood career. A compelling saga of the shifting boundary between life and art Onoto Watanna reveals the conflicting stories personal tempests and remarkable accomplishments of a woman whose career was sensational in every sense This Book is Not About Drama... Myra Barrs,2000 Recharge literacy in any classroom by giving students opportunities to use storytelling role playing and reenactments to interact with the themes characters and events in texts
