At the Beach

My friend and I went to the beach on Saturday.

While we were at the beach we had a cool swim.

After our swim we built sandcastles.

Later it began to rain, so we packed up and went home.

We were tired from our day at the beach, so we went to bed early.

The Kid Across the Hall Reid Saaris, 2023-09-05 Growing up Reid was confused and disturbed by the radically different opportunities his best friend received After a childhood spent together Jamie and Reid found themselves on opposite sides of a high school hallway that separated kids based on a misunderstanding of their supposed potential The gap between the two friends widened as Reid's classes enabled him to pursue an elite college degree across the country studying educational opportunity and teaching Then Reid became a teacher at an under resourced South Carolina high school where efforts to serve the incredible students were stymied by internal segregation and administrative ambivalence He was disabused of the Hollywood myth that a good teacher could simply save the day when each false start with his students forced him to reckon with how much he didn't know After Reid assigned students a project to create a positive change they pushed him to figure out how he too could make a bigger difference While an individual's efforts are no match against entrenched systems Reid learned firsthand that a community of people powered by data can effect change This lesson motivated him to found Equal Opportunity Schools EOS a nationwide nonprofit dedicated to finding the students who were overlooked discouraged or otherwise missing from higher level classes As EOS became more successful partnering with major philanthropies universities and even the White House Reid grappled with his role as a leader Only through the efforts of first his students in South Carolina and later his team at EOS would he come to understand and begin to overcome the limitations of his vision Informed by extensive new data on educational opportunity in America The Kid Across the Hall is a powerful story of learning and unlearning of leading and learning to follow
