Children Read Biblical Narrative Melody Renee Briggs, 2017-05-31 How do children read the Bible? This book makes a major contribution to this underexplored area by analyzing how children interpret Bible stories focused around an empirical investigation of one group of eleven to fourteen year old children and their readings of the Gospel of Luke. The first section of the study establishes the nature of the text and the readers in this project exploring the Gospel of Luke as a narrative of Jesus' birth, life, death, and resurrection, and then looking at the developmental traits of children as readers. The next section offers a model account of how biblical scholars can investigate empirical readings of Scripture by describing the methods used to bring together one group of child readers and Luke. The third section then analyzes the resulting multitude of interpretations that the children offered in their reading of the book, concentrating on the key trends in their interpretive strategies. It critiques the children's readings of Luke but it also points to some of the surprising and beneficial results of reading Luke using the interpretive strategies of a child. Handbook of Parenting and Child Development Across the Lifespan Matthew R. Sanders, Alina Morawska, 2018-12-06

This handbook presents the latest theories and findings on parenting from the evolving roles and tasks of childrearing to insights from neuroscience, prevention science, and genetics. Chapters explore the various processes through which parents influence the lives of their children, as well as the effects of parenting on specific areas of child development such as language, communication, cognition, emotion, sibling, and peer relationships, schooling, and health. Chapters also explore the determinants of parenting, including consideration of biological factors, parental self-regulation, and mental health, cultural and religious factors, and stressful and complex social conditions such as poverty, work-related separation, and divorce. In addition, the handbook provides evidence supporting the implementation of parenting programs such as prevention, early intervention, and treatments for established issues. The handbook addresses the complementary role of universal and targeted parenting programs, the economic benefits of investment in parenting programs, and concludes with future directions for research and practice. Topics featured in the Handbook include: The role of fathers in supporting children's development; Developmental disabilities and their effect on parenting and child development; Child characteristics and their reciprocal effects on parenting; Long distance parenting and its impact on families; The shifting dynamic of parenting and adult-child relationships; The effects of trauma such as natural disasters, war, exposure, and forced displacement on parenting. The Handbook of Parenting and Child Development Across the Lifespan is an essential reference.

Bullying in American Schools
 Dorothy L. Espelage, Susan M. Swearer, 2004-02-04. Much of our knowledge about bullying behaviors comes from research conducted over the past several decades in Europe, Australia, and Canada. Until the past decade, research in the United States has lagged behind our European, Australian, and Canadian counterparts. This book seeks to fill this void by forwarding research on bullying across contexts conducted with American participants. This book is an exciting compilation of research on bullying in school-aged youth conducted across the United States by a representative group of researchers including developmental, social, counseling, school, and clinical psychologists. As such, it presents a picture of the complexity of bullying behaviors and offers suggestions for using data-based decision making to intervene and reduce bullying behaviors in our nation's schools. Given the complexity of bullying and victimization, this book gives guidance for schools as they develop prevention and intervention programming for bullying. Providing a source through which school administrators can utilize the research findings, the book is divided into five parts. Part I illustrates the importance of individual characteristics across bully-victim subtypes. Part II addresses how peer groups relate to bullying across the school years Part III explores how teachers and classrooms influence bullying and aggression during the school years Part IV implicates ecological systems in fostering and maintaining bullying in schools It also highlights the potential for these systems to work in combating bullying Part V focuses on specific aspects of prevention and intervention planning
