The Mountain Arapesh Margaret Mead, For approximately eight months during 1931 1932 anthropologist Margaret Mead lived with and studied the Mountain Arapesh a segment of the population of the East Sepik Province Papua New Guinea She found a culture based on simplicity sensitivity and cooperation In contrast to the aggressive Arapesh who lived on the plains both the men and the women of the mountain settlements were found to be in Mead's word maternal. The Mountain Arapesh exhibited qualities that many might consider feminine; they were in general passive, affectionate, and peace-loving. Though Mead partially explains the male's femininity as being due to the type of nourishment available to the Arapesh, she maintains social conditioning to be a factor in the type of lifestyle led by both sexes. Mead's study encapsulates all aspects of the Arapesh culture. She discusses betrothal and marriage customs, sexuality, gender roles, diet, religion, arts, agriculture, and rites of passage. In possibly a portent for the breakdown of traditional roles and beliefs in the latter part of the twentieth century, Mead discusses the purpose of rites of passage in maintaining societal values and social control. Mead also discovered that both male and female parents took an active role in raising their children. Furthermore, it was found that there were few conflicts over property; the Arapesh, having no concept of land ownership, maintained a peaceful existence with each other. In his new introduction to The Mountain Arapesh, Paul B. Roscoe assesses the importance of Mead's work in light of modern anthropological and ethnographic research, as well as how it fits into her own canon of writings. Roscoe discusses findings he culled from a trip to Papua New Guinea in 1991 to clarify some ambiguities in Mead's work. His travels also served to help reconstruct what had happened to the Arapesh since Mead's historic visit in the early 1930s.

Margaret Mead (1901-1978) was associated with the American Museum of Natural History in New York for over fifty years, becoming Curator of Ethnology in 1964. She taught at Columbia University and the New School for Social Research, as well as at a number of other universities. Among her many books is Continuities in Cultural Evolution, available from Transaction Publishers. Paul B. Roscoe is professor of anthropology at the University of Maine. He is a frequent contributor to anthropology journals, including American Anthropologist, American Ethnologist, and Current Anthropology, and is co-editor with Nancy Lutkehaus of Gender Rituals: Female Initiation in Melanesia. The 1992 recipient of the Royal Anthropological Institute's Curl Essay Prize, he has an archival specialization in ancient Polynesia.

The Mahabharata, Volume 2, 2014-08-14. The Mahabharata, an ancient and vast Sanskrit poem, is a remarkable collection of epics, legends, romances, theology, and ethical and metaphysical doctrine. The core of this great work is the epic struggle between five heroic brothers, the Pandavas, and their one hundred contentious cousins for rule of the land. This is the second volume of van Buitenen's acclaimed translation of the definitive Poona edition of the text. Book two, The Book of the Assembly Hall, is an epic dramatization of the Vedic ritual of consecration that is central to the book. Book three, The Book of the Forest, traces the further episodes of the heroes during their years in exile. Also included are the famous story of Nala dealing with the theme of love in separation and the story of Rama, the subject of the other great Sanskrit epic, the Ramayana, as well as other colorful tales.

THE INDIA THEY SAW \(VOL-3\) Meenakshi Jain, 2011-01-01. The arrival of Vasco da Gama on the western coast of India near Calicut on 27 May 1498 heralded the restoration of Europe's links with the subcontinent after an interval of almost eight centuries. With his landing, India became accessible to Portuguese conquistadors, traders, travellers, scholars, and clergymen. The sixteenth century could, in a sense, be termed the Portuguese century for no European power could challenge its mastery of the sea route to India. The defeat of the Spanish Armada in 1588 by Holland and England however signaled the end of this monopoly and in 1595 the first Dutch fleet entered the Indian Ocean. In the seventeenth century the Dutch with their British camp followers seriously undermined the Portuguese. The French also entered the Indian trade in the second half of this century. While several Portuguese accounts of India in the sixteenth century are available for the seventeenth century we also have the writings of travellers, scholars and missionaries from the latter three countries. Additionally Jesuits of various nationalities wrote regular letters to home providing valuable information on facets of Indian life albeit tempered by their religious bias. This volume confines itself to European writings of sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. It does not claim to be exhaustive but presents glimpses of the Indian reality as recorded by contemporary European visitors. Only English translations have been used. A sizeable number of accounts in European languages still await translation.
