houses accommodating a civilian work force under military control West of the fort lay a number of buildings apparently serving as a military annexe rather than civilian vicus The fort was almost entirely rebuilt in c 223 5 retaining only parts of the original west and east walls After a delay of about a decade when part of the garrison was probably posted elsewhere a double barrack block was erected in the north east corner of the fort possibly to accommodate cavalry The building underwent a number of alterations and remained in use until c 400 There are slight indications of activity on the site subsequent to that date Rebuilding of the fort in c 223 5 was accompanied by construction of an extensive vicus which was largely abandoned by the last quarter of the third century Foremost amongst the finds was a fragment of a military diploma issued to a soldier of cohorts Tungrorum There were numerous objects of iron and copper alloy A considerable quantity of pottery was recovered from a sequence of third and fourth century deposits Coin finds from the fort and vicus are compared and their significance discussed
