Worship Across the Racial Divide Gerardo Marti,2017-12-15 Many scholars and church leaders believe that music and worship style are essential in stimulating diversity in congregations Gerardo Marti draws on interviews with more than 170 congregational leaders and parishioners as well as his experiences participating in worship services in a wide variety of Protestant multiracial Southern Californian churches to present this insightful study of the role of music in creating congregational diversity Worship across the Racial Divide offers a surprising conclusion that there is no single style of worship or music that determines the likelihood of achieving a multiracial church. Far more important are the complex of practices of the worshipping community in the production and absorption of music. Multiracial churches successfully diversify by stimulating unobtrusive means of interracial and interethnic relations in fact preparation for music apart from worship gatherings proves to be just as important as its performance during services. Marti shows that aside from and even in spite of the varying beliefs of attendees and church leaders diversity happens because music and worship create practical spaces where cross racial bonds are formed. This groundbreaking book sheds light on how race affects worship in multiracial churches. It will allow a new understanding of the dynamics of such churches and provide crucial aid to church leaders for avoiding the pitfalls that inadvertently widen the racial divide. Music and Mysticism Maxwell Steer, 1997-02. First Published in 1997. Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis, an informal company. The Oxford Handbook of Music and World Christianities Suzel Ana Reily, Jonathan Dueck, 2016. The Oxford Handbook of Music and World Christianities investigates music's role in everyday practice and social history across the diversity of Christian religions and practices around the globe. The volume explores Christian communities in the Americas, Europe, Africa, Asia, and Australia as sites of transmission, transformation, and creation of deeply diverse musical traditions. The book's contributors, while mostly rooted in ethnomusicology, examine Christianities and their musics in methodologically diverse ways, engaging with musical sound and structure, musical and social history, and ethnography of music and musical performance. These broad materials explore five themes: music and missions; music and religious utopias and other oppositional religious communities; music and conflict; music and transnational flows; and music and everyday life. The volume as a whole then approaches Christian groups and their musics as diverse and powerful windows into the way in which music, religious ideas, capital, and power circulate and change between places now and historically. It also tries to take account of the religious self-understandings of these groups, presenting Christian musical practice and exchange as encompassing and negotiating deeply felt and deeply rooted moral and cultural values. Given that the centerpiece of the volume is Christian religious musical practice, the volume reveals the active role music plays in maintaining and changing religious moral and cultural values in a long history of intercultural and transnational encounters. Grazing and Growing Megan Meyers, 2018-02-27. This book explores the impact of contextualized worship arts on the development of church ministry and missions in urban churches in Beira, Mozambique. This applied research, which took place over the course of two years, focuses on expanding the song writing workshop model in an effort to enhance culturally appropriate worship in the local church. Results of this study include increased use of local hymnody, intentional use of worship to teach theological truths, engaged pastors and empowered worship leaders, and a greater missional involvement through the use of contextualized worship arts. This book clearly demonstrates the necessity of contextualized worship arts as a key component of local church growth and the development of its members, encouraging personal discipleship, growing local ministry, and empowering for mission. Music in Kenyan Christianity Jean Ngoya

Popular Music, Cultural Politics and Music Education in China Wai-Chung Ho,2016-12-08 While attention has been paid to various aspects of music education in China to date no single publication has systematically addressed the complex interplay of sociopolitical transformations underlying the development of popular music and music education in the multilevel culture of China Before the implementation of the new curriculum reforms in China at the beginning of the twenty first century there was neither Chinese nor Western popular music in textbook materials Popular culture had long been prohibited in school music education by China's strong revolutionary orientation which feared spiritual pollution by Western cultures However since the early twenty first century education reform has attempted to help students deal with experiences in their daily lives and has officially included learning the canon of popular music in the music curriculum In relation to this topic this book analyses how social transformation and cultural politics have affected community relations and the transmission of popular music through school music education Ho presents music and music education as sociopolitical constructions of nationalism and globalization Moreover how popular music is received in national and global contexts and how it affects the construction of social and musical meanings in school music education as well as the reformation of music education in mainland China is discussed Based on the perspectives of school music teachers and students the findings of the empirical studies in this book address the power and potential use of popular music in school music education as a producer and reproducer of cultural politics in the music curriculum in the mainland

Sampling Politics M.I. Franklin, 2021-07-28 Music sampling has become a predominantly digitalized practice It was popularized with the rise of Rap and Hip Hop as well as ambient music scenes but it has a history stretching back to the earliest days of sound recording and experimental music making from around the world Digital tools and networks allow artists to sample music across national borders and from diverse cultural traditions with relative ease prompting questions around not only fair use copyright and freedom of expression but also cultural appropriation and copywrongs For example non commercial forms of sharing that are now commonplace on the web bring musicians and their audiences into closer contact with emerging regimes of commercial web tracking and state sponsored online surveillance Moreover when musicians actively engage in political or social causes through their music they are liable to both commercial and state forces of control Shifts back to corporate ownership and control of the global music business online and offline highlight competing claims for commercial and cultural ownership and control of sampled music from local communities music labels and artists Each case study is based on archival research close listening and musical analysis alongside conversations and public reflections from artists such as David Byrne Anirudha Das Asian Dub Foundation John Cage Brian Eno Sarah Jones Gil Scott Heron Karlheinz Stockhausen Dunya Yunis and Sonia Mehta Sampling Politics provides ways to listen and hear again how sampling practices and music making work on its own terms and in context In so doing M I Franklin corrects some errors in the public record addressing some longstanding misperceptions over the creative legal and cultural legacy of music sampling in some cases of rich and complex practices that have also been called musical borrowing cultural appropriation or theft This book considers the musicalities and musicianship at stake in each case as well as the respective creative practices and performance cultures underscoring the ethics of attribution and collaboration when sampling artists make music
