The Struggle For Modern Tibet:

The Struggle for Modern Tibet Melvyn Goldstein, William Siebenschuh, Tashi Tsering, 1997-02-21 This autobiography of a Tibetan nationalist with a burning desire to reform and modernize the old society presents for the first time a personal portrait of Tibet that is realistic neither a feudal hell as Beijing would have it nor Shangrila as many sympathetic outsiders would have it Tashi's moving story beginning with his humble early circumstances covers his search for education in Tibet and the United States his return to China Tibet in early 1964 and his life in China especially during the Cultural Revolution when he was charged as an American spy and imprisoned Finally exonerated Tashi became a professor of English at Tibet University and went on to found in 1985 the first English night school in Lhasa Now retired he devotes all his efforts to raising funds to build rural schools in his home province where his still illiterate relatives live The Struggle for Modern Tibet

The Struggle for Education in Modern Tibet William R. Siebenschuh, Tashi Tsering, 2003 This is the remarkable story of a Tibetan peasant who convinced of the vital importance of education for Tibetans like himself has raised the money to build more than fifty three primary schools in rural Tibet The project began with one school and became a grassroots effort that gained the support of both Tibetans and friends and contributors around the world It examines the conception financing and realization of the Namling School Project in the complex political climate and developing market economy of the new Tibet China With photographs Contemporary Tibet Barry Sautman, June Teufel Dreyer, 2017-03-02 The subject of Tibet is highly controversial and Tibet as a political entity is defined differently from source to source and audience to audience The editors of this path breaking multidisciplinary study have gathered some of the leading scholars in Tibetan and ethnic studies to provide a comprehensive analysis of the Tibet question Contemporary Tibet explores essential themes and issues concerning modern Tibet It presents fresh material from various political viewpoints and data from original surveys and field research The contributors consider such topics as representations and sovereignty economic development and political conditions the exile movement and human rights historical legacies and international politics identity issues and the local society The individual chapters provide historical background as well as a general framework to examine Tibet's present situation in world politics the relationship with China and the West and prospects for the future Population and Society in Contemporary Tibet Rong Ma, 2011-01-01 This extensive survey documents Tibetan society over five decades including population structure in rural and urban areas marriage and migration patterns the maintenance of language and traditional culture economic transitions relating to income and consumption habits educational development and the growth of civil society and social organizations In addition to household surveys completed over twenty years the book provides a systematic analysis of all available social and census data released by the Chinese government and a thorough review of Western and Chinese literature on the topic It is the first book on Tibetan society published in English by a mainland China scholar and covers several sensitive issues in Tibetan studies including population changes Han migration into Tibetan areas intermarriage patterns and ethnic relations Ma Rong is a widely respected demographer and professor of sociology at Peking University He spent five years in Inner Mongolia during the Cultural Revolution and was one of the first Chinese students to study in the US after Deng Xiaoping's reforms receiving his doctorate degree from Brown University The academic study of Tibet still suffers from a lack of accurate data and restrictions on access to Tibet for research This very useful analysis will increase the quality of the discussion and help to correct many inaccurate Western impressions of Tibet Gerard Postiglione University of Hong Kong Tibet Sam van Schaik, 2011-06-28 Presents a comprehensive history of the country from its beginnings in the seventh century to its rise as a Buddhist empire in medieval times to its conquest by China in 1950 and subsequent rule by the Chinese The theatre of Tibet Antonio Attisani, 2024-04-05T00:00:00+02:00 he theatrical culture of Tibet is probably the last to remain virtually unknown to the outside world and to the West in particular As well as describing the current situation of studies on Tibetan theatre the current volume also provides an essay on imagination and how it is concretely manifested by the Tibetan people and their actors Recent decades have seen radical change for Tibetan theatre acher lhamo now performed by a diaspora for whom a declining artistic and technical change derives from an uncertain politics concerning secular and popular culture as well as the ongoing cultural genocide caused by China's subjection of Tibet The New Cambridge Handbook of Contemporary China Colin Mackerras, 2001-10-15 Completely revised and updated the New Cambridge Handbook of Contemporary China is an indispensable and manageable guide to the world's most populous nation Emphasising the period from the 1990s the book covers and includes the following subjects a chronology detailing events since 1949 politics and law biographies of eminent individuals an annotated bibliography of books journals and websites relevant to China in the 1990s and beyond foreign relations especially with the United States and Russia the economy including China's main economic reform programs and objectives education population and a gazetteer With an excellent selection of figures diagrams and maps this book will be the standard reference to contemporary China for students teachers journalists travelers academic and government researchers business people policy makers and general readers A History of Modern Tibet, Volume 3 Melvyn C. Goldstein, 2013-12-07 Continues A history of modern Tibet Volume 2 The calm before the storm 1951-1955 The Beggar Lama Tenzin Jinba, 2023-10-24 The Beggar Lama is the story of the Gyalrong Kuzhap a Tibetan Buddhist polymath and reincarnated lama who has led a remarkable life through the vicissitudes of the twentieth century Born in 1930 in Tsalnha Gyalrong on the easternmost fringes of the Himalayan Tibetan Plateau he would go on to become a monk a Communist official a professor of Tibetan studies and a leader in the Tibetan cultural survival movement in China Drawing on hundreds of hours of in depth and open ended conversations over more than a decade Tenzin Jinba presents the Gyalrong Kuzhap's life story The Beggar Lama chronicles his journeys from Gyalrong to Lhasa from steadfast Communist to critic of the Chinese regime from scholar to activist painting a compelling portrait of an influential and unconventional figure In so doing the book shows how the Gyalrong Kuzhap's tale intertwines with larger social and political developments providing a wide ranging history of Tibet the Sino Tibetan borderlands and China over the past century The Beggar Lama shares the Gyalrong Kuzhap's insightful and often critical views on Tibetan cultural and religious institutions the Chinese Communist Party's social and political agendas Tibetan studies in China and the prospects for Tibetan cultural rebirth Above all it is a story of hope in dark times as the Gyalrong Kuzhap seeks with his last breath to prevent Tibetan culture and memory from vanishing

The Future of Tibet Helen R. Boyd, 2004 This book discusses the emergence of democracy's modernizing force in an exiled community with a political history based on a feudal theocracy Since his exile almost forty years ago the Dalai Lama and his government in exile have steered this fledgling democratic community toward the fulfillment of his dream of converting a theocracy to a democracy The establishment of a tripartite government with separate powers and the development of a framework for a future democratic polity if and when Tibetans regain their land is a testament to the ongoing democratizing revolution

Postcolonizing the International Phillip Darby, 2006-06-30 Postcolonizing the International brings post colonialism directly into engagement with contemporary international studies while at the same time reflecting back on the discourse noting certain blindspots and shortcomings in critique Reversing the established agenda it begins with the position of non European societies and the legacies of colonialism Two companion essays on knowledge formations about the international and the changing nature of the political are followed by challenging reinterpretations of contemporary global politics focusing on race skewed development cultural difference and everyday life Individual chapters speak to the significance of consumption and commodification the need for redirecting Western development strategies initiatives of the Tibetan cabinet in exile and sexuality as metaphor Contributors Phillip Darby Paul James Gabriel Lafitte Marcia Langton Ashis Nandy Edgar Ng Sekai Nzenza Simon Obendorf Nabaneeta Dev Sen

The Politics of Sorrow Tsering Wangmo Dhompa, 2025-02-18 The Dalai Lama escaped from Tibet in 1959 after its occupation by China and established a government in exile in India There Tibetan leaders aimed to bring together displaced people from varied religious traditions and local loyalties under the banner of unity To contest Chinese colonization and stand up for self determination Tibetan refugees were asked to shed regional allegiances and embrace a vision of a shared national identity The Politics of Sorrow tells the story of the Group of Thirteen a collective of chieftains and lamas from the regions of Kham and Amdo who sought to preserve Tibet's cultural diversity in exile They established settlements in India in the mid 1960s with the goal of protecting their regional and religious traditions setting them apart from the majority of Tibetan refugees who saw a common tradition as the basis for unifying the Tibetan people Tsering Wangmo Dhompa traces these different visions for Tibetan governance and identity juxtaposing the Tibetan government in exile's external struggle for international recognition with its lesser known internal struggle to command loyalty within the diaspora She argues that although unity was necessary for democracy and independence it also drew painful boundaries between those who belonged and those who didn't Drawing on insightful interviews with Tibetan elders and an exceptional archive of Tibetan exile texts The Politics of Sorrow is a compelling narrative of a tumultuous time that reveals the complexities of Tibetan identities then and now

Food of Sinful Demons Geoffrey Barstow, 2017-10-24 Tibetan Buddhism teaches compassion toward all beings a category that explicitly includes animals Slaughtering animals is morally problematic at best and at worst completely incompatible with a religious lifestyle Yet historically most Tibetans both monastic and lay have made meat a regular part of their diet In this study of the place of vegetarianism within Tibetan religiosity Geoffrey Barstow explores the tension between Buddhist ethics and Tibetan cultural norms to offer a novel perspective on the spiritual and social dimensions of meat eating Food of Sinful Demons shows the centrality of vegetarianism to the cultural history of Tibet through specific ways in which nonreligious norms and ideals shaped religious beliefs and practices Barstow offers a detailed analysis of the debates over meat eating and vegetarianism from the first references to such a diet in the tenth century through the Chinese invasion in the 1950s He discusses elements of Tibetan Buddhist thought including monastic vows the Buddhist call to compassion and tantric antinomianism that see meat eating as morally problematic He then looks beyond religious attitudes to examine the cultural economic and environmental factors that oppose the Buddhist critique of meat including Tibetan concepts of medicine and health food scarcity the display of wealth and idealized male gender roles Barstow argues that the issue of meat eating was influenced by a complex interplay of factors with religious perspectives largely supporting vegetarianism while practical concerns and secular ideals pulled in the other direction He concludes by addressing the surge in vegetarianism in contemporary Tibet in light of evolving notions of Tibetan identity and resistance against the central Chinese state The first book to discuss this complex issue Food of Sinful Demons is essential reading for scholars interested in Tibetan religion history and culture as well as global food history Conflict and Social Order in Tibet and Inner

Asia Fernanda Pirie, Toni Huber, 2008-07-31 Revolution and social dislocation under the communist regimes of China and the Soviet Union followed by the upheavals of reform and modernisation have been experienced by Tibetan Mongolian and Siberian people forcibly integrated into these nation states as conflict violence and social disruption This volume bringing together case studies from throughout the region assesses the experiences and legacies of such events Highlighting the agency of those who shape and manipulate conflict and social order and their historical cultural and religious resources the contributors discuss evidence of social continuity as well as the recreation of social order Engaging with anthropological debates on conflict and social order this volume provides an original comparative perspective on both Tibet and Inner Asia

A Tibetan Revolutionary Melvyn C. Goldstein, Dawei Sherap, William R Siebenschuh, 2004-06-24 This is the as told to political autobiography of Ph ntso Wangye Ph nwang one of the most important Tibetan revolutionary figures of the twentieth century Ph nwang began his activism in school where he founded a secret Tibetan Communist Party He was expelled in 1940 and for the next nine years he worked to organize a guerrilla uprising against the Chinese who controlled his homeland In 1949 he merged his Tibetan Communist Party with Mao's Chinese Communist Party. He played an important role in the party's administrative organization in Lhasa and was the translator for the young Dalai Lama during his famous 1954-55 meetings with Mao Zedong. In the 1950s Phinwang was the highest ranking Tibetan official within the Communist Party in Tibet. Though he was fluent in Chinese, comfortable with Chinese culture, and devoted to socialism and the Communist Party, Phinwang's deep commitment to the welfare of Tibetans made him suspect to powerful Han colleagues. In 1958 he was secretly detained; three years later he was imprisoned in solitary confinement in Beijing's equivalent of the Bastille for the next eighteen years. Informed by vivid firsthand accounts of the relations between the Dalai Lama, the Nationalist Chinese government, and the People's Republic of China, this absorbing chronicle illuminates one of the world's most tragic and dangerous ethnic conflicts at the same time that it relates the fascinating details of a stormy life spent in the quest for a new Tibet.

China's Literary and Cultural Scenes at the Turn of the 21st Century Jie Lu, 2013-10-18 China's literary and cultural production at the turn of the twenty-first century is marked by heterogeneity, plurality, and diversity. Given its complexity, the literary-cultural production of this period perhaps can be understood most productively as a response to a global modernity that has touched and transformed all aspects of contemporary Chinese reality. The eleven essays in this book offer an introduction to some of the most important works published at the turn of the twenty-first century. In combining textual analysis of specific works with theoretical insights and in locating the texts in their sociocultural and socioeconomic contexts, the essays explore key theoretical issues and intellectual concerns of the time. They collectively draw a broad contour of new developments, major trends, and radical changes, capturing the intellectual and cultural Zeitgeist of the age. All in all, these essays offer new theoretical approaches to and critical perspectives on contemporary Chinese literature and culture.

The Disempowered Development of Tibet in China Andrew Martin Fischer, 2013-12-20 Series Studies in Modern Tibetan Culture Lexington Books, Weatherhead East Asian Institute, Columbia University. Since the central government of China started major campaigns for western development in the mid-1990s, the economies of the Tibetan areas in Western China have grown rapidly and living standards have improved. However, grievances and protests have also intensified, as dramatically evidenced by the protests that spread across most Tibetan areas in spring 2008 and by the more recent wave of self-immolation protests that started in 2011. This book offers a detailed and careful exploration of this synergy between development and conflict in Tibet from the mid-1990s onwards, when rapid economic growth has occurred in tandem with a particularly assimilationist approach of integrating Tibet into China. Fischer argues that the intensified economic integration of Tibet into regional and national development strategies on these assimilationist terms, within a context of continued political disempowerment and through the massive channeling of subsidies through Han-Chinese dominated entities based outside the Tibetan areas, has accentuated various dynamics of subordination and marginalization faced by Tibetans of all social strata. Whether or not these dynamics are intended to be discriminatory, they effectively accentuate the discriminatory

assimilationist and disempowering characteristics of development even while producing considerable improvements in the material consumption of local Tibetans In particular strong cultural linguistic and political biases intensify ethnically exclusionary dynamics among middle and upper strata of the Tibetan labor force which is problematic considering the rapid shift of Tibetans out of agriculture and towards the highly subsidy dependent sectors of the economy especially in urban areas The combination of these disempowering dynamics with the sheer speed of dislocating and disembedding social change provides important insights into recent tensions given that it has accentuated insecurity while restricting the ability of Tibetan communities to adapt in autonomous and self determined ways The study represents one of the only macro level and systemic analyses of its kind in the scholarship on Tibet based on accessible economic analysis and extensive interdisciplinary fieldwork It also carries much interest for those interested in China and in the interactions between development inequality exclusion and conflict more generally
